Points to Keep in Mind when Using the MN SOLOM

Read all instructions before beginning assessment.

1. Consider all situations—both informal, social and formal, instructional—in which you have observed the child. Based on your observation of the student, indicate for each category the level that best describes the student’s abilities.

2. Consider the most recent and consistent level of ability that you have observed. When it is difficult to choose between two levels, score down. For example, if you think the student is between a two and a three, give the student a two for that domain.

3. Level 1 is a student who has very limited English oral skills; a newcomer to English. Levels 4 and 5 are considered fluent English speakers (approximating that of native English speakers).

4. Think of only one category of language ability at a time.

5. Start with the students you know the best.

6. Think of only oral proficiency; don’t let the child’s reading and writing ability come to mind as you rate.

7. Don’t let the levels of ability of other children in the class influence your rating; i.e. Make sure you aren’t giving a child a high score simply because he/she is one of the best students in a class of all lower ability students.

8. Remember that Level 5 is the level of ability expected of a native English-speaking child who is not bilingual and who is of the same age as the child you are rating.

9. Requirements:

   a. Must be a licensed person
   b. The MN SOLOM should only be administered by persons who score at level 4 or above in all categories in English (Fluent English speaker)
   c. Student must be observed during the observation window

10. Recommendations:

    a. Have more than one evaluator do the assessment to promote dialogue and define academic listening and speaking
    b. Place working copy of MN SOLOM in student’s cum/district folder

Notes: Persons who are fluent English speakers and who are familiar with the student to be rated should use the MN SOLOM. Ideally the teacher will rate the English language proficiency of a student after several weeks of instruction. There is no test to be administered; rather, the teacher needs a few quiet moments to reflect on the language skills of the given student and to select the description that most closely matches the current proficiency of that student. The teacher uses descriptions on five-point scale to rate the student’s language performance in six domains: academic comprehension, social comprehension, fluency, vocabulary, pronunciation, and grammar.

A rating is immediately available and can be used to group and regroup students for ESL, to report student progress, or to guide refinements to instructional methods and materials.
SOLOM Interview Protocol

(Optional)

1) Would you tell me your full name, please?

2) How old are you?

3) What country are you from? How long have you been in the United States? (If appropriate)

4) Tell me about yourself.

5) Do you remember your first day at school? Will you tell me about the first day? What was it like? How did you feel that first day?

6) What is your favorite time at school? What do you do? Why is it your favorite?

7) Tell me what you like to do at home. Tell me a story about something that has happened to you.

8) Tell me about a book that you’ve read.

9) Have student narrate a brief story based on a picture sequence. (Requires materials preparation)

10) Have student interpret visual material such as a graph, chart, or diagram. (Requires materials preparation)
11) Tell me about a process you like to do. Have student give directions or describe a process. (For example: Tell me about making chocolate chip cookies, or how do you play Four Square?)

12) Have student express an opinion and present rationale for that opinion.

13) What would you like to do when you grow up?

14) Do you have any questions?
